St. Andrew's Lutheran Church

Dear Siblings in Christ,

What is your favorite story, biblical or otherwise? Is it a fairy tale, like Cinderella, Snow White, or Sleeping Beauty? Is it a book or series, like Harry Potter, Star Wars, or Anne of Green Gables? Maybe it's a movie, like the Indiana Jones series or "The Crown"? Or for biblical stories, maybe it's David and Goliath? Or Sampson and his superhuman strength? Abigail and her wisdom with David? The Christmas Story or the Resurrection Story? Or what about the Syrophonician Woman who met Jesus to ask him to heal her daughter? (That one is my personal favorite. You KNOW I like the snarky ones. )

Whatever your personal favorite might be, all of us love a good story. Studies have shown that we remember information better if we can attach a meaningful story to it. Good stories make for good sermon illustrations, and often I hear the congregation doesn't remember a thing I said on Sunday morning, but they remember if I told a good story (like Baby Motka)!

We all have good stories in our pockets, whether those things happened to us personally or to someone else. Every once in a while, I have the occasion to tell the story about how Helen Soderquist (of beloved memory) met Liberace at his home in Las Vegas. (If you haven't heard this, it is an AMAZING story!)

But we have also been entrusted with the Greatest Story ever told – the story of God's plan of salvation for humanity and all of creation through Jesus Christ. In the world we live in these days, there are far too many who clearly do not know this story of sacrificial love and the call to love our neighbor as we love ourselves. And because we are so deeply loved by Christ, we are obligated to gratefully live that love toward others.

This month, how can you tell your story? How can you both tell and show others that God's transformational love lives within you? Because it is good for us to remember, as St. Francis of Assisi once said, that we are to "preach the gospel at all times. Sometimes, use words."

Walking with you along The Way,

Pastor Kim

Go and Tell the Story:

Living the Creation Story Every Day

My dad was a storyteller. He was not the kind of storyteller that told different stories every time you met him. He was a storyteller who had ONE story. His story was that he loved the Lord and he loved the Lord's creation. Period. He had a million variations of this story, but that was his story. And he LOVED to tell it. He didn't just use words (although he did like to talk and he enjoyed writing poems), he LIVED his story. Every. Single. Day.

By trade, my dad worked as meat inspector for the USDA. But by vocation, Dad was a farmer. He was a farmer who believed that earth and all creation were gifts from God and that we truly were stewards of God's creation. For Dad, telling the story meant lovingly and meticulously tending the 90 acres in his care. He spent hours reading, learning, and studying best conservation practices. He worked with NRCS, Practical Farmers of Iowa, the Department of Natural Resources, the Cedar County Extension Office, and anyone else who would talk to him about best practices for land management and conservation.

Dad told the story through hours and hours and gentle care for the land. He wrote grants to develop a rotational grazing program. He put in miles and miles of water line and solar chargers on the hills across the land and planned a grid of pastures. He spent years developing the best mix of grasses in each paddock. He knew that farming was part art, part science, part luck, and lots of love. He knew the land was a living, breathing gift from God. And he was happiest when he was walking the land and singing a song with our old dog Buck and a farm cat following him across the pastures. Dad told the story by caring for his herd. He named the cows. Each cow had handwritten records in a book on his desk. And each day, when he went out to see if they were ready for new grass, he talked to them. He called them by name. They knew him and they knew he would take care of them. If one of his carefully constructed fences got knocked down and a cow went missing, we'd all be called into action. No one was sleeping until that cow was accounted for. I've helped haul cows out of everything from the farm pond to the back valley to the neighbor's yard.

If you spent any time around Dad, you were going to hear the story. It oozed out of him. Dad hosted numerous field days at the farm and they were always focused on conservation practices. They may not have been church events, but my Dad sure was preaching! The story came through loud and clear: love the Lord and love the Lord's creation.

Dad wanted the story to go on. He loved to teach and work with new farmers, especially those who got excited about rotational grazing and caring for the land. Unfortunately, my dad died in a car accident years ago, but I imagine him meeting the Lord and being told "well done, good and faithful servant," and I know that the story does go on. I have talked to many people who learned conservation practices from my dad. I see the story go on in the way my sisters and I live our lives every day. As I reflect on my dad's story, I can almost hear my dad challenging me with the questions, "What are you doing to tell the story? Are you living the story? Are you caring for creation? How are you being a steward?"

And so, it is my hope and my prayer that we can all find our unique stories, the stories of our call to love the Lord and to love the Lord's creation. Each of us will find that story in our own way but as those stories are beautifully woven together, I pray that the story of God's creation will be around for generations to come.

GO AND...

TELL THE STORY

Jesus isn't in the tomb anymore – God is on the loose! God is active and up to something! The story of Easter is an ongoing one, similar to the story of our own faith. Our response as disciples is to Go and... to go out, go share, go proclaim, and to go tell the story.

Questions to Consider:

- What is one of your favorite Bible stories?
- Is there a prop or tangible item you might use to help you tell the story?
- How will you GO and tell the story?

Prayer: Master Storyteller, your stories seem almost unbelievable. Open us to recognize your patience, deep love, and grace. Help me be a storyteller. Amen.

Suggested Song: I Love to Tell the Story (ELW 661)

*A happy and blessed Mother's Day to one and all!
We give thanks to God for our mothers and for all the amazing women in our lives!*

I am so blessed to have so many friends at St. Andrew's who have been praying for my recovery from Heart Surgery. I thank so many of you for the cards of well wishes and prayers. Pastor's visits and phone calls have also been much appreciated. Recovery is progressing very well the doctor's PA tells me, and I hope to back at church soon. God bless all of you!

On Sunday, May 5, at 6:3pm, we'll be showing "Les Misérables", a 2012 period musical based on the stage musical of the same name. The story reaches resolution against the background of the June Rebellion of 1832.
